PRINCIPAL

PASTOR TOM DECKER

I can't believe that I am on the Principal's page in the AAA yearbook! I have watched you as pastor from afar for many years. My own children (Trei and Alexi) attended here and I watched you as a parent of a fellow student. Now, this year I have watched you as your principal. I have watched you pursue "A"s in your academics. I have watched you pour energy into your sports, and also passion into your music. You have been resilient taking changes and adjustments with compassion, grace, and a desire to keep moving forward.

I have especially enjoyed watching you grow spiritually. J2B and J2C were amazing experiences. Watching you share God in Orchestra, Wind Ensemble, Choir, and Sylvan repeatedly moved me deeply. You shared during Student Week of Prayer with a powerful authenticity and transparency. I think that Friday night God could not resist coming to visit us in a power that I have rarely experienced. I have been powerfully moved as I have experienced your love of the Lord this year. Welcome to the grand adventure of serving God. As you leave the misty hill of AAA, I pray that you will be the bold adventurer that He is calling you to be.

VICE PRINCIPAL OF ACADEMICS

MRS. MARY KOBBERSTAD

When I think of home, I think of Auburn Adventist Academy. I moved to Auburn with my family in 1990. My three children grew up roaming the campus and all graduated from this fine school. They were blessed with wonderful teachers and lifelong friends. Although this is not my alma mater, I have more loyalty to this school than the one I graduated from. It is so gratifying to keep in touch with former students and to make new friends each year as a new batch of students enter through the doors and fill the halls with energy and joy. It is always so exciting to meet and greet each new year's student body. I am thankful for all the students, staff, and faculty who have blessed my life in unique and exciting ways. Go Falcons!

VICE PRINCIPAL OF STUDENT LIFE COACH JEREMY VANDENBOER

A D M I N I S T R A T I O N T E A M

This is my first year at Auburn Adventist Academy, and it's been a true blessing for my wife and me. I'm making the transition from being a classroom teacher to an administrator, and I couldn't have come to a better place to learn and grow. Even though we've only been here a short time, the community, faculty, and staff has welcomed us with open arms, and we already feel like we're part of the AAA family.

AAA is blessed to have a wonderful staff who has a passion about not only making an educational difference in the lives of our people, but more importantly a spiritual one. It has a student body that is full of life, energy, and personality. There is never a dull moment around the office, and there have been a lot of firsts for me this year. It's been fun getting to know a new group of students, and develop friendships that will last into the future. God has blessed this school with a lot of gifted and talented students. I'm excited to see the plans God has for them unfold. This is a student body that is going to do great things.

VICE PRINCIPAL OF FINANCE MR. AARON PURKEYPILE

Auburn Adventist Academy has a storied history. My grandmother graduated from AAA back in 1947. My first visit to the Northwest took place when I was five years old. I remember the stark contrast of the landscapes as we drove across the country and how awesome it was to see so many trees everywhere. (My home in Kansas lacked trees.) The Pacific Northwest looked like a place I would love to visit again.

My family has enjoyed exploring the Northwest and meeting new friends in the Auburn Academy community. The staff members of Auburn are a great group of people to serve with and they are passionate about what they do. We love each student that walks through our doors unconditionally. Together we learn and grow in the wisdom and strength of Jesus Christ. We laugh and cry together. We sharpen each other. We make Auburn Academy strong and we will soon become the next chapter in AAA's storied history.

Spirit Week

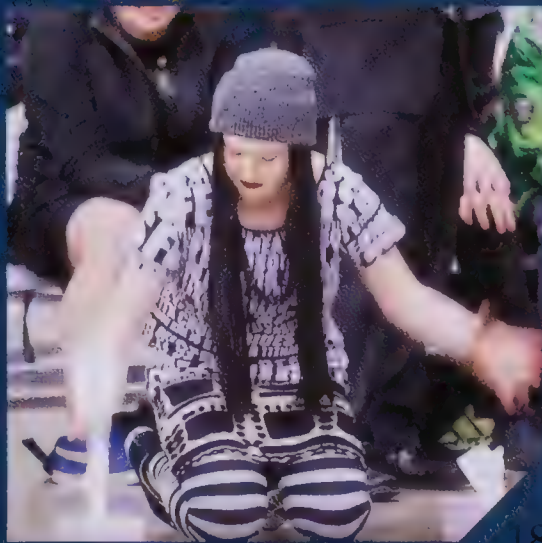

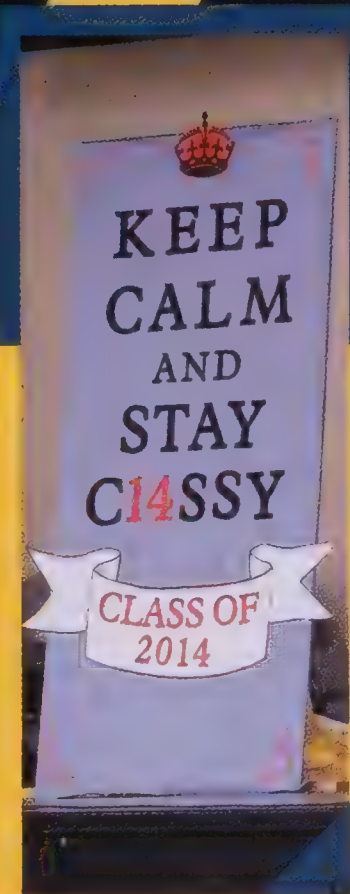

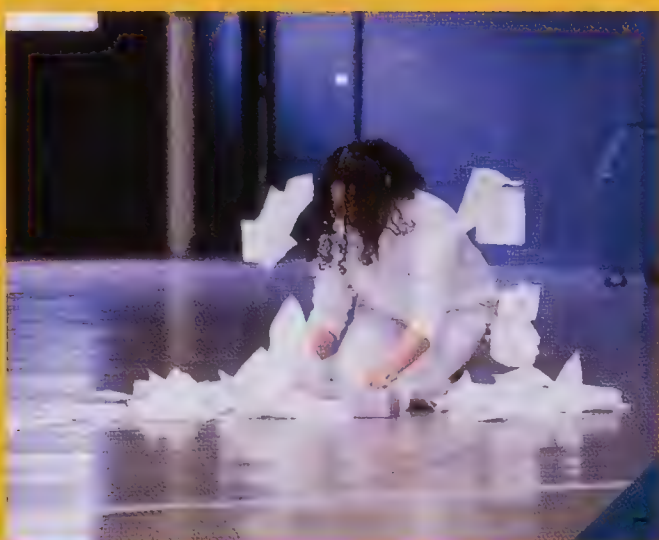

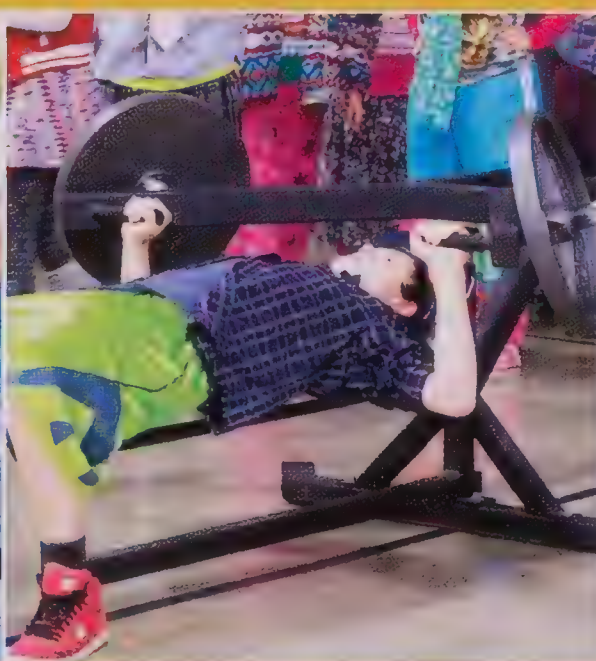

Out of all the days we spend together here at Auburn, one week in particular stands out from all the rest. Spirit Week is a well known and much loved tradition and this year's was definitely one to remember. Monday, Black and White Day, produced a lively student body with participants ready to earn points for their class. . The other four days, Generations Day, Twin Day, Clash Day, and Nations Day were no different; each theme brought new excitement to the week and students went all out, taking the themes to new extremes. Every morning before lunch the whole school competed in different games and activities, each class hoping to score more points than the others. The week was full of friendly competition and a lot of school spirit. Everyone had fun and each class put up a good fight, but the senior class eventually came out on top.

Top // Orchestra tuning for the show.

'Tis the season to make music! The music department's yearly Christmas Concert is meticulously planned. Orchestra, Wind Ensemble, Piano Quartet, Concert Choir, and Sylvan Chorale begin preparing music as early as September, and it certainly payed off. Ultimately, however, the students are not playing for attending family, friends, and community members. They're playing for Christ, celebrating His birth through musical talents as diverse as they are beautiful--vocal, instrumental, rhythmic. Each unique gift adds another element to the group, the music department, and AAA as a whole.

ASB Christmas Party

For the Kids

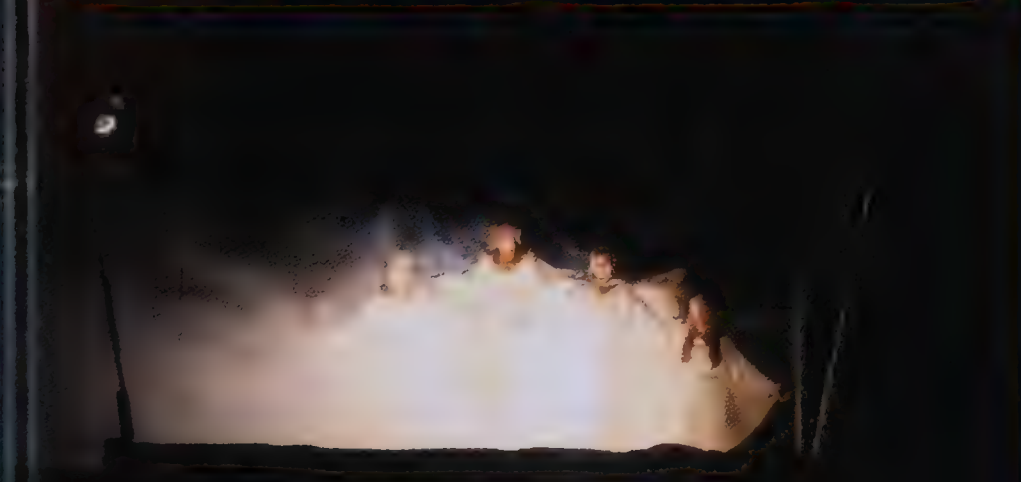

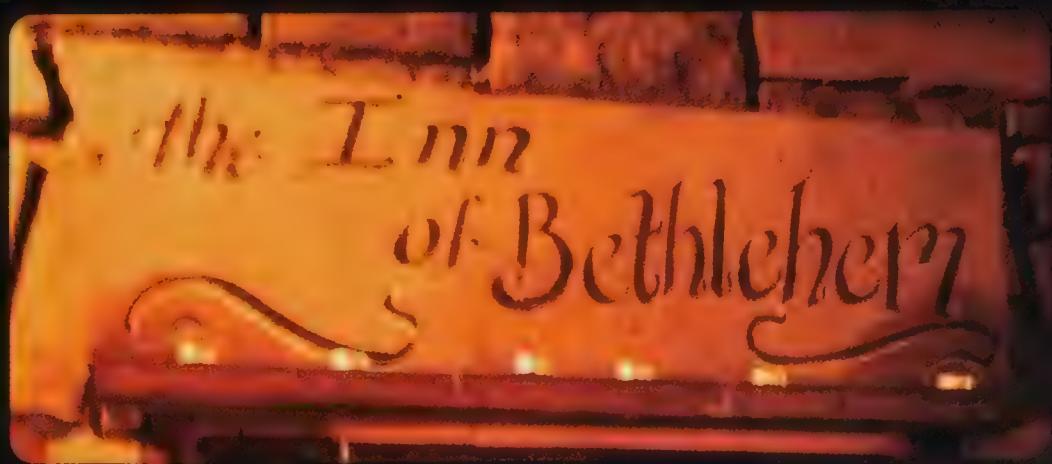

Once a year, every year, the cafeteria is filled with the sounds, sights and smells of Christmas. ASB's annual Christmas party for underprivileged children is always a blast. Students sign up to buy gifts for a child and spend the morning with them, decorating cookies and playing games. Santa Claus (played this year by Pastor Tom) arrives about halfway through for pictures and the passing out of presents. The children go home with full bellies, happy hearts and a new gift or two; the students go home with a warm glow that only comes from giving. The season of giving, indeed.

Take The Journey

Roman Guards, the smell of smoke, the rumbling growl of a camel, starry nights, and the Son of God. Journey to Bethlehem is a ministry run by the AAA Church. Students participate in the program by acting, or behind the scenes work, or by just taking the Journey. Thousands of community members visit our Bethlehem every year. This experience puts into perspective the true meaning of the Christmas Season.

A Night on the Skyline

In the history of Auburn, the Casa Loma Banquet has been known to be a night full of unforgettable memories and this year was no different. Nicknamed "The Sea-quel," the adventure began with a relaxing bus ride to Argosy Cruises. Upon arrival students and teachers boarded an elegantly decorated cruise ship and were able to enjoy a marvelous sunset while sailing across the Sound. In addition to the beautiful view, attendees were able to partake in a delectable three-course meal and by the end of the night everyone's stomachs were too full of food to be occupied by nervous butterflies any longer. This year's Casa Loma Banquet will be remembered as a night of smooth sailing.

THE CAST

Born to Act: Tyler Masden, senior, plays Professor Harold Hill—the titular Music Man. Tyler has been involved in multiple productions over the years, including Auburn's 2012 musical "The Sound of Music" in which he played Rolf. "Being a part of this acting family is a memory I wouldn't trade for anything," Tyler says, "even for all the hours of sleep I could have gotten instead!"

From Maria to Marian: Alexi Decker, senior, plays librarian Marian Paroo. Coming from her role as Maria Von Trapp in "The Sound of Music," she says that "The Music Man" challenged her in many ways—"Especially the dancing! But I felt like I understood what I was supposed to be doing more than I did last year. Most of all, I loved goofing off backstage and just making memories with everyone."

The Music Department's annual musical has become an exciting event in November. 2013's production of "The Music Man" saw over 500 people in attendance at Rainier Auditorium. In addition to a cast of 36 students, community and staff members formed the School Board and Beuna Vista seventh graders played the Boys' Band. The orchestra (including Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Choi on the piano) led the music, and painted and designed the beautiful sets.

All in all, the musical was a time to showcase —and most of all, to have fun!

IRISH AND PROUD: Brianna Bryan, sophomore, is the Irish Mrs. Paroo. Although half Irish herself, Brianna faked the accent—not that anyone could tell!

SET IN THE LIBRARY!: (RIGHT:) For use in the library scene, Auburn Adventist Academy's very own library graciously donated scores of old books.

COMIC RELIEF: Madison Turner, sophomore, is Eulalie Mackecknie Shinn, the mayor's ridiculous wife. It may have been Madison's first major role, but her every appearance promised humor, and as one cast member said, "She stole the show!"

BREAKOUT STAR: Victor Moore plays Charlie Cowell, the villain. Although easy-going in reality, his Charlie hit perfect notes of anger and intimidation without sacrificing humor.

COSTUME PARTY

got them ASB Costume party blues. . . well this night definitely screamed the color blue. A new and unique theme, the color Blue was a huge hit among the students and staff alike. Costumes were taken in so many different directions, and the variety was incredible. From beautiful blue bird to Blue's clues, from Blue Man Group to bubble baths, the costumes were all great fun. Students ate food, played games and just had a fabulous time. Despite the theme, there were absolutely no sad faces during this year's ASB costume party

Our Year Senior Trip was a trip that left memories that will last a lifetime. On Friday we played on the lake all day with the Woody's and the Spano's boats, as well as the newly refurbished sailboats. We welcomed the Sabbath with a beautiful vespers at the campsite, but the real excitement had only just begun. As we started heading to bed, rain started falling, lightning started flashing, and thunder started booming. The wind was picking up and our tents were blowing away! Only a few Seniors stuck it out through the storm in their tents, while the rest went and slept on the bus. Thankfully everyone was safe when the morning came. We went to a small church in Grand Coulee and did their church service. The members of our class greatly outnumbered the tiny church's attendance but all of us felt a huge blessing, knowing that the Holy Spirit was in that sanctuary. We ended the weekend with a fun game of capture the flag. The weekend as a whole brought us all closer together as a class, and it was great to spend time with the classmates that have made up the Class of 2014 since freshman year.

Auburn Adventist Academy's annual "Getting to Know You" class competition is always a blast. Every student shows up in his or her class color: green for the seniors, orange for the juniors, pink for the sophomores and blue for the freshmen. Once divided into classes, the students begin to spread their loot for the traditional "Almost Anything Goes" game that calls for random items from each class's stash. From there, the evening includes more games, food, and a whole lot of healthy competition. The final four-square volleyball game—in which every student participates—is always a highlight. It was a happy surprise this year when the senior class (known for doing poorly in nearly every class competition since freshman year) won by a landslide. Go Seniors!

the ASB Handshake

ASB

Handshake is an annual event that happened within the first days of school. It was an experience that bonds everyone in the school through a warm handshake, a smile, and a little small talk. This is one of the events that sets Auburn Academy apart. After the actual "handshakes" were through, everyone then got to play fun ASB led activities together. The day ended in a barbeque shared with staff and students. This day was filled with a great feeling of belonging and finding yourself in a new student body.

Registration Day 2013

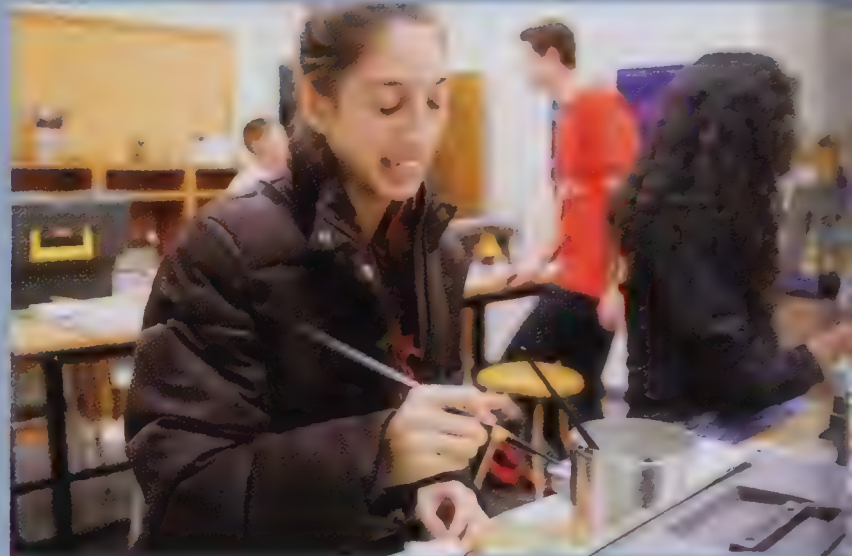

New clothes, new school supplies, maybe even a new style. Students put their best into the first day of the new school year. You could feel the excitement as freshmen and new students made their way around the gym, as well as the returning students that moved through the stations with a knowing ease. Reuniting with friends and looking forward to a fresh school year, students explored the campus and the possibilities it would bring for the next nine months. Students met the people that were then merely just another face, but soon were to become a giant family.

at Auburn, we take pride and we succeed in academics. There are enough classes that everyone can find their niche and explore different options. Many students discover their learning interests and also career interests by the classes here at Auburn. Offering classes that range from Auto Mechanics to English, International Foods to Calculus, or Lifeguarding to Bible class, Auburn offers a class for every single person alike.

English

the art of truth

There are many ways to cook a potato. You can hash it, bake it, boil it, fry it—so it is with words. But however they're done, if they're done right, they may turn up something you never would have expected. Words tell the tale of the human heart; English is indeed the art of truth, and that truth is that of the soul. As Ernest Hemingway put it, "There is nothing to writing. All you do is sit down at a typewriter and bleed." But the real magic of words lies in the fact that you can use them to say anything you wish—whether it's serious, funny, ironic, or as downright mad as Wonderland.

Rachel Lake in English 11 Class.

Dylan Turner narrates the classic Christmas tale of the Grinch.

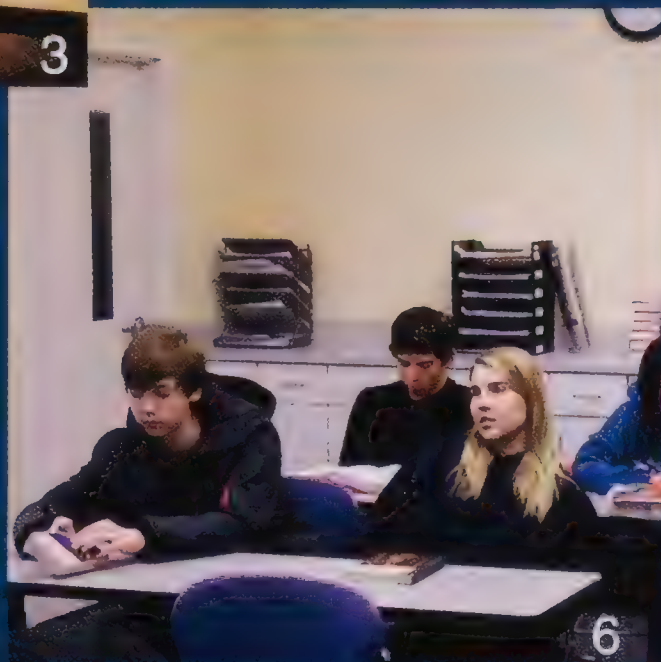

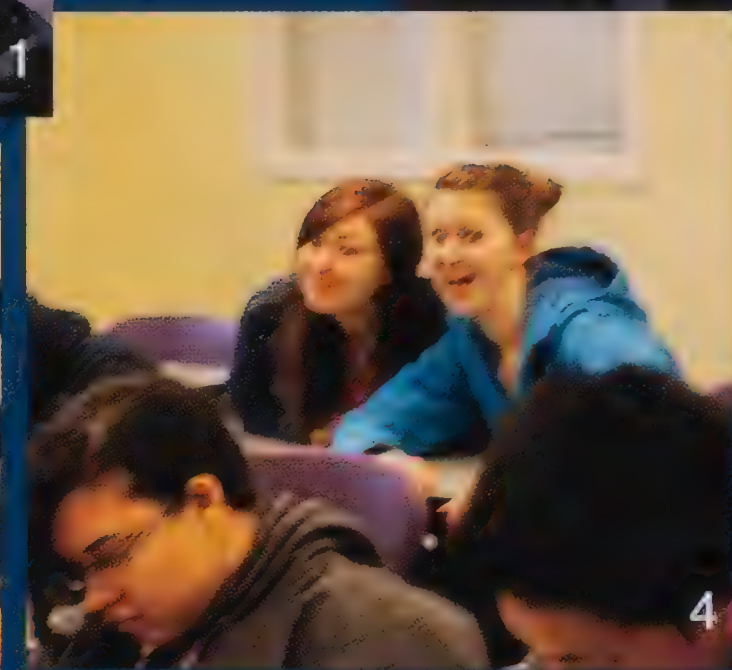

(left) the classroom of the fabled chalkboard wall. This room has seen teachers and students pass in and out of its doors, heard speeches, watched students fall asleep at their desks, even witnessed the theft of one of the most celebrated holidays ever created. But above all, it will hold many memories for each student at Auburn Adventist Academy. After all, who doesn't enjoy adventure in the lands that exist in your imagination?

When you think of a yearbook, what comes to mind? People, memories, places, good times? Our yearbook staff this year have done an awesome job at documenting the past, and keeping it alive. We wanted to not only remind of the past, but to serve as a way to relive the memories that we have made, and never letting them die. When people read or look through this yearbook, we want everyone to see one thing, and that is Auburn Adventist Academy at its finest.

Instruments of

A Long Tradition

The diverse Sylvan Chorale is a longstanding tradition here at Auburn. Throughout the course of the year, Sylvan has performed in local churches, for charity fundraisers, with the North Pacific Union Choral Clinic Choir, at the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, and for graduation. Sylvan's traditional song, Make Me an Instrument, sums up their aim perfectly: to be continually molded by Christ into vocal instruments of peace.

Praise In Song

Raise Your Hands!

Each song sung is chosen to bring listeners closer to the Maker of music. New members quickly learned the power they held in their voices when the year's first performance of the song Raise Your Hands brought many audience members to tears.

Wind Ensemble

Inspiring Faith

At AAA we have an incredible talent for all kinds of musical expressions, and this talent is exemplified in the instrumental department. Our Wind Ensemble and String Orchestra tour throughout the year to local churches and also take a long tour in the spring. This year they will be travelling to Oregon. The one thing that Mr. Russell always stresses in practices, and during performances, is that all that we do, all that we play, all of our talents, are for God's glory alone. Whether we are playing the theme of Star Wars, or Amazing Grace, all praise goes to the Lord.

The faces of Auburn Adventist Academy. We aren't just a face, we are each a person with thoughts, dreams, ideas, passions, and a spirit. We all together create one huge spirit, which is the spirit of Auburn Academy. Each of us play a part in achieving an intricately woven puzzle that is called AAA. We are the leaders of tomorrow, but if we so choose, we can also be the leaders of today. These are the faces of your friends, and your teachers, mentors, and classmates. Whether you love em or you hate em, you cannot deny that we all look pretty good.

the class of 2014. we have finally made it. through long nights of writing papers and finishing up math homework to the early morning government period, we made it. this year marks a pivotal time in our lives. we rule the school. we live it up. we never do something with half of our hearts. all four years of highschool have come to an end, and as we rewind through our last year together, not only should we smile at those memories, but look to the future, and smile, knowing God is in control.
